At the corner of Oconto Street and Ellis Avenue

(715) 582-3244

Inside the Peshtigo Fire Museum take a picture of the large mural of what the fire looked like. ID flag must be in the picture!

On October 8, 1871, the Great Chicago Fire made world headlines. It claimed 250 lives and had wiped out 1,750 buildings in a 4-square-mile area. About one-third of the city's population of 330,000 was left homeless; property damage was estimated at $200 million.

Almost to the minute that the fabled Chicago Fire broke out, the more deadly, yet far less famous fire was beginning to rage in the fledgling town of Peshtigo, Wisconsin. To this day, the Great Peshtigo Fire ranks as the costliest fire in terms of human life in U.S. history. More than 1,200 people perished in the fire storm that consumed more than 1.25 million acres of forest. There are 600 people buried in a common grave sight.

Peshtigo, Wisconsin is located in the extreme northeast corner of the state near the Michigan border near US-41. There are signs on US-41 to the museum.
